WORLD BANK
Making the SDG a reality

The world enters its sixth year of the unfinished 2030 Agenda, and the second year of its fight against the COVID-19 pandemic. As we stand at a crossroads, our plan of action for the people and the planet faces unprecedented challenges and scrutiny.

Health is a central theme of the Sustainable Development Goals, with 13 targets in SDG 3 to ensure healthy lives and promote well-being for all at all ages. Health is also related to the other 16 SDGs, or is indirectly linked to gains in them. As the ongoing pandemic continues to test the resilience of health systems all around the globe, the actions of people have given hope to understand the interconnected issues and collective fight.

Kerala has put up her fight on the scientific rationale and knowledge in managing the pandemic by involving all the stakeholders, institutions and governance structures to make it a public action.

Kerala’s health system ensures equitable access to quality healthcare through its multi-pronged approach that balances conventional priorities such as maternal and child health with upcoming challenges focusing on non-communicable diseases. It grows towards the idea of a resilient and responsive system that ensures quality universal healthcare, and catalyses the quest towards the SDGs.

It is at this juncture that Kerala plans to bring us all together, and become the crucible for a renewed discussion on the achievement of the SDGs. This conference offers platforms to discuss broad themes that are the central pillars of the Kerala experience.

Isn’t resilience a product of sustainable, inclusive and progressive systems?

We, the ‘TEAM Kerala Health’ cordially invite you all to participate in the Webinar Kerala Health – Making the SDG a reality.
